Assembly Bill 118 (Núñez, Chapter 750, Statutes of 2007) created the Energy Commission's ARFVTP, which invests up to $100 million annually to develop and deploy alternative and renewable fuels and advanced transportation technologies supporting California's climate goals. The program also invests in manufacturing and workforce training to translate clean technology investments into sustained employment opportunities.

Since its creation, the ARFVTP has invested more than $745 million in projects throughout the state, supporting California's efforts to reduce greenhouse gas emissions, increase zero emission vehicle adoption, improve air quality, promote economic development, and reduce the state's dependence on petroleum.

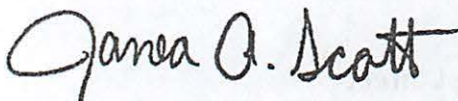

Information for the ARFVTP can be found at <http://energy.ca.gov/transportation/> and ARFVTP related meeting and event notices can be found at <http://www.energy.ca.gov/altfuels/notices/index.html>
